

BREAKDOWN OF CRUSHER DEALS ROAD REPAIR

Town Council Considering Extending Pavement on Other Streets

The roads through the town are showing considerable improvement and those in charge are to be congratulated on the work accomplished thus far. The roads within the town limits during the past season especially were deplorable, but unfortunately could not be avoided owing to heavy traffic. A check up made by the Western Globe, the work already done includes six round foot concrete culverts have been installed, approximately two thousand yards of dirt has been removed, cuts have been made in some places, and fills in others, making a uniform grade within the town limits. On the whole mile and one half from the Blackfalds pit. The work has been unavoidably delayed owing to the crusher breaking down, but the committee in charge state that better time will be made from now on. After the gravel is on the road, the road will be in good shape. The town council at their last meeting decided to extend this work further by treating Barnet Ave. from Day's corner to the town limits, West, and from A. M. Campbell's corner to the railway track, East. It is the intention of the Council to have the same surface treatment used on Dolmage St. and Allan St. The petition was left in abeyance until the engineer's report on this work is received.

BANNER OATS GROWN BY H. R. DOOL

Banner Oats attaining a growth of about 6 feet 8 inches in height is the proud achievement of Herbert R. Dool, a farmer living 11 miles N.W. of Lacombe. Sown on June 6, and cut on Sept. 14th, these oats were grown as a second crop on new breaking. Although cut while still green, the oats have ripened up wonderfully in the stock, and Mr. Dool is of the opinion he has a top quality of grain, which will thresh out at a fairly good average per acre.

Announcement

We are pleased to announce negotiations recently culminated with Mr. Charles B. Halpin, and a sale completed to purchase from him Lacombe's weekly newspaper, The Western Globe, and the Halpin Quick Print.

Mr. Halpin, who has been connected with the Globe for 30 years, has been a respected townswoman and held in high esteem by the community, and on his invitation and decision to sell, a sale was consummated.

We solicit for the new ownership the same loyal support he has enjoyed. We, the new owners, Harry J. Ford and L. S. Walker, have both been in the newspaper business for the past 25 years, and feel qualified to give Lacombe and district a weekly newspaper creditable to the reputation it holds in the Province of Alberta.

It will be the aim of The Western Globe to serve and promote the best interests of Lacombe and District. Situated as it is, in the finest mixed farming territory of Alberta, a weekly newspaper can do much to foster its prosperity, which is in the mutual interest of the business life of the community.

The support already promised the new ownership is much appreciated and it will be our earnest endeavor to justify the faith and confidence so generously demonstrated. Unsurpassed service and fullest co-operation at all times, will be our motto.

Under the new ownership, The Western Globe feels gratified it will be able to take a share in promoting the interests of this district and incidentally the Province of Alberta in general.

Valedictory

This week the Western Globe comes to you at the hands of Messrs. Ford & Walker, two well known and competent western newspaper men, who, we have no doubt will give the public service in keeping with the prosperous territory represented.

It is with regret that we give up the management of the Western Globe after nearly thirty years of strenuous work, but we do so with the feeling that we have made a lot of friends and at all times we have endeavored to give everyone a "square deal." We have never let personal matters enter into the conduct of The Western Globe, and have never intentionally hurt anyone's feelings. At this time we wish to sincerely thank our patrons for the support accorded us through good times and times not so good, and assure them that their loyalty will always be a bright spot in our memory.

It is our intention to remain in Lacombe, and it will always be a pleasure to meet old friends personally.

The people of Lacombe and district will find Messrs. Ford & Walker two efficient newspaper men, and we bespeak for them the Liberal patronage heretofore accorded The Western Globe.

Beasborough did, visit as much of the Dominion as physical limitations permit, learn the conditions, needs, and aspirations of the people, give leadership and direction to worthy, non-partisan movements, and generally incite to the realization of their essential unity.

Lord Beasborough gave impetus to the Little Theatre movement, and eventually saw it take Dominion-wide form. He was practically the prime mover in the collection of the fund for combating cancer, the Dominion's tribute gift to the King. ## Democracy And Liberty

Liberty, says Mr. Stanley Baldwin, is rooted in the English character and fostered and maintained by institutions which also have grown out of that character. That liberty is embodied in the parliamentary system which is the result of the obstinate determination of the English people to manage, individually and nationally, their own affairs. Mr. Baldwin says that system has grown out of the common sense and good nature of the people, who prefer elections to street fighting, and talking shop to revolutionary tribunals. The English, above all other peoples, have made a success of democracy and that success has been planted in the Overseas Dominions. The reason for this is adduced by The London Times as being a refusal to "wear our fetters in our souls." That freedom is the breath of democracy which protects the people from domination by one side or the other through the expression of opinion in the ballot box. It is as The Times says, "the translation into action of our instinctive determination to resist any form of tyranny that has from time to time preserved us."

Mr. Baldwin reiterates that the price of liberty is eternal vigilance, and the more so in a democracy which is the most difficult form of government, and, therefore, the most worthy of giving our lives to make it a success. Thus Great Britain has the monition that it is not enough to sit with folded arms and believe that she has the greatest Government in the world. Tyranny takes many forms. It is constantly raising its head. One way of propaganda it has devised is to constantly bemoan that democracy has failed. According to Mr. Baldwin, it is the form of government which has won more triumphs than any other, and, therefore, should be cherished and cultivated as in times past. Self-government, which is democracy, has maintained in developing forms in England for eight centuries. No one is going to be able to tear it from its roots, which are laid in the English character.

When we review the history of this North American continent, we find that the struggle for liberty and self-government is written large over its pages. The Pilgrim Fathers left the old world in order that they might enjoy that religious liberty denied to them at home. The original American colonies revolted because self-government was withheld from them, and taxation imposed on them without their consent. The American Civil War was a life and death struggle for liberty. One long fight followed another in pre-Confederation days to win liberty and the rights of responsible government in Canada.

In the earlier days of the world's history, liberty could only be gradually won through bloodshed and death on the battlefield. Today it can only be retained and expanded through democratic forms of government, and by stern resistance to all movements, however subtle and apparently innocent, which tend to restrict the liberties of the people, and of individuals who in the aggregate are the people and the State.

Why have the peoples of Great Britain, United States and Canada laid such stress on individual liberty, and been willing to sacrifice all else in order to achieve it? The answer is, of course, that liberty is the greatest thing in life, and without it life is not worth the living. A slave may enjoy health and security, but lacking his God-given right of liberty he is denied that which is supremely greater, peace and happiness.

It is not to be forgotten, too, that it is only in those countries where full and free democratic forms of government exist that liberty remains the priceless possession of the people. Yet we find in certain countries, where the people became lax in defence of their liberties, those very democratic forms were first utilized by would-be dictators to later deprive them of their liberties. And all over North America today there are organized groups, employing the very liberty which democracy has conferred upon them, to overthrow and destroy democracy.

It is necessary, therefore, for all people who prize liberty to be on their guard and resist every attempt, however veiled it may be, which is designed to restrict the liberty of themselves or others in even the smallest degree. Liberty once lost may be extremely hard to win back again.

An Ideal Vacation

"Yes, sir, it was just about the ideal vacation. Nothing to do but loaf around all day in comfortable chairs. No mosquitoes, no insects of any kind. Pleasant, smiling people on all sides. No big bills running up, no relatives, no sunburn. "Just peace and quiet all day long. A thorough rest for the mind and body—the kind of vacation you've always dreamed about. "Yes, sir, it was ideal. We certainly enjoyed that vacation the best."

Lady Haig's Book

Interim Interdict Is Granted Against Publication

An interim interdict was granted against the publication of Lady Haig's book, "The Man I Knew." The publishers decided to withhold the book in consequence of an action on the grounds that parts of the book infringed the copyright of the trustees in the diaries of the late Field Marshal Earl Haig. Publication of the diaries, it was contended, was likely to be detrimentally affected and cause loss to the Haig estate.

The action recalled the prodigious diary-writing propensities of Haig. It was stated his personal record aggregated 750,000 words written in duplicate. A carbon copy was always sent to his wife.

Lady Haig's object in writing the book was largely to vindicate her husband against an attack in the recently-published memoirs of Lloyd George.

Japs Need More Room

Want Privilege Of Emigrating To British Territory

The Tokyo newspaper Asahi predicted that Japan was about to make a strong bid for loosening of restrictions on the immigration of Japanese into British territory, notably Australia, New Zealand and Canada, and on immigration of Japanese goods.

In forthcoming conversations with Sir Frederick Lath-Rose, who is at stop at Tokyo on his way to China as a special economic envoy of the British government this month, the Japanese will make this request, the paper said.

Regained Health By Exercise

Five years ago doctors told William Campbell of Vancouver he had only six months to live. He took physical culture lessons, won his battle with death and now is making a habit of saving others from the same fate. During one month he saved four persons from drowning in Vancouver waters.

Paying Their Way

Dionne Babes Contribute Indirectly To Revenue For Ontario

If the five little Dionne girls knew anything about such things as tourist traffic, gasoline taxes and the revenues of trade, they might preen themselves on their contributions to business and to the treasury of Ontario out of all proportion to what is expected of mere babes.

It has been estimated that the thousands of visitors to Callender are paying approximately $12,000 a month in gasoline taxes to the province. The crowds who see the Dionne quintuplets average one thousand a day. Tourist traffic into the North Bay district has increased nearly forty per cent, creating an evident prosperity that reaches out to hotels, other purveyors and tradesmen of all kinds.

The five little girls are more than paying their way, and are returning to the province substantial dividends on the sympathy and public assistance that was so generously and promptly rendered to them in the first precarious months of their young lives.

They are also supporting twenty persons, according to a report from Callender—three parents, three nurses, two maids for their mother, two maids for their father, a cook, two orderlies, two special constables, three men to direct traffic, two hospital maids and Dr. Daffoe. To their famous physician they doubtless owe more than they can ever repay, but to everyone else they occupy a charming and cheerful position of independence in the sponsored knowledge that they are a personal and financial asset to Ontario. Thousands of men and families are undoubtedly on relief, drawing funds from the strained provincial treasury to which five-year-old babes are indirectly credited with contributing such appreciable sums as $12,000 in gasoline taxes alone.

Products Should Be Shown

Only Way To Interest China In Canadian Products

China, and particularly southern China, offers a huge and comparatively untapped field of opportunity to Canadian industry. Mrs. Beatrice Thompson, director of the advertising and publicity bureau of Hong Kong, China, and Malaya, declared at Montreal. She is visiting Canada's largest centres in connection with the proposed British Empire and China trade fair planned for December, 1934, at Hong Kong.

She said foodstuffs in particular were in demand. She estimated the potential consumption of imported butter at 13,000 tons annually, with proportionate opportunities for the sale of other Canadian products.

"There is only one way to interest the Chinese in your exports," Mrs. Thompson continued. "Let them see your products for themselves. Merely to follow plans tried elsewhere and send out a commission on a brief visit is to court the same failure and lack of results that have been experienced in the past by other parts of the empire."

Will Try Boralist System

New Method Of Training For Youth In Penitentiaries

A system of training youthful delinquents similar to the Boralist system in the United Kingdom will be inaugurated in one of the penal institutions of Canada, Sept. 1, it was learned at Ottawa. Within four years it is hoped to develop plans embracing the whole Dominion so far as Boralist training is concerned.

"If we are given one year for every 10 years of experimentation in Boralist training carried on by the United Kingdom, we shall be able to evolve a satisfactory system," declared one high government official. "The Boralist system has been in vogue in Great Britain for 40 years; the new methods are continuing to emerge."

In Canadian penitentiaries there were 221 young men between the ages of 16 and 21. It was with a proportion of these that the training system will start.

Butter Awards

Manitoba Captures Honors At Canadian National Exhibition

Manitoba creameries captured premier honors in the Canadian National Exhibition's creamery butter contest, final results of which are announced.

First prizes secured by the provinces were: Manitoba 42, Alberta 17, Ontario four, British Columbia two, Saskatchewan one.

The Winkler Creamery, Winkler, Man., was awarded the silver cup for the highest scoring exhibit at the exhibition. Silver medal winners for highest scoring sample of butter in each section included: Central Alberta Dairy Pool, Alix, Alta.

Claims He Remembers Chart

Nova Scotia Miner Confident He Could Locate Cocos Island Treasure

Confident he knows Cocos Island's secret, Alex MacLeod wants to drop his coal mining tools and set out for the lonely Pacific isle in quest of the will-o'-the-wisp hoard of gold and jewels that has dazzled fortune-hunters for generations.

From the black depths of a Cape Breton coal pit to a cache of pirate booty is a far cry. But Alex MacLeod says he has the key to the transition. For etched in his memory, he claims is the chart that an ancestor brought home after dipping into the treasure for enough to keep him comfortable for the rest of his life.

His grandmother showed him the faded chart, MacLeod declares, years after great-grandfather Keating came back from Cocos to settle down to an idle shore life with what he had found. He saw it often, he says, and he's "certain" now he can lead the way to the hide "unless time and the elements have wrought vast changes at Cocos."

MacLeod is eager to go to the southern island with Captain "Bud" Bellany of Vancouver, who has just come back home with a story of finding 133 gold and silver coins on Cocos. Captain Bellany himself is hoping to get back to search for the $12,000,000 treasure he believes lies there.

But he's hoping for different circumstances than attended his longed-for expedition. For MacLeod and death he says, sailed with that voyage. Keating had obtained the map from a sailor named Thompson, supposed to have seen the treasure buried. He showed it to a Newfoundland captain, who took him along to the Pacific as ship's carpenter.

"When they reached the island," the miner related, "Keating and the captain went ashore, and they found the treasure exactly as described. MacLeod, aged seven, was with them. Keating broke open. Keating filled his money belt with thin bars of gold and took two handfuls of gemstones, which he declared would do him for his lifetime."

"But the sight of so much wealth drove the captain insane. Taking handfuls of jewels he flung them high in the air. My great grandfather filled the skipper's belt and pockets, but the man wasn't satisfied until he had stuffed his boots with gold."

"Leaving the island, the captain jumped on the gunwale of the boat. It capsized. He went down, and with the weight he was carrying he never rose to the surface. Keating hung on to the boat and was rescued. He jumped ship at Panama and went home to Newfoundland."

MacLeod's grandmother, then just a girl, was home when the adventurer arrived with so many jewels that she dumped on a plank. "It looked as if the room were afire," they were sold cheaply, but Keating clung to the gold. When he moved to North Sydney, N.S., he was supposed to have hidden the bars around Little Bear's Cove. When he wanted money there would be a mysterious night excursion, and next day a package would go to Ottawa.

A New Electric Lamp

Used Successfully In California To Attract And Kill Insects

A new electric lamp that attracts insect pests of field and orchard and then electrocutes them is in successful use in orchards, packing plants, slaughter houses and mushroom nurseries as the result of long experimentation by Prof. W. B. Herms of the University of California. The color of the light may be changed to the one most attractive to the insect pest. Around the light is a wire cage. Insects flying toward the light's glare coil are instantly electrocuted when they strike the wire cage. The head of the lamp contains transformers which supply electric power to the wire cage and to the lighted coil.

Canada, the United Kingdom, France, Germany and Austria are leading world importers of fruit. Canada does not require to import apples, but the average annual imports of other fruits into Canada from 1928-32 included 74,000 tons of bananas; 73,000 tons of oranges; 20,000 tons of dried grapes; 12,000 tons of lemons; 11,000 tons of grapes; and 8,000 tons of pears.

From January 6 to June, 1935, Canada exported 8,103,449 pounds of leaf tobacco, 5,792,961 pounds of which went to the United Kingdom; 238,960 pounds to British West Africa; 92,895 pounds to British West Indies; 11,880 pounds to Belgium; and 7,513 pounds to other foreign countries.

Contest Was Interesting

Negro Housewives Planned Good Meals And Stayed Within Budget

"Best tops and carrot tops are just as tasty as the vegetables themselves." Bidding budget and meals, negro housewives in New York succeeded in winning prizes from officials of the department of health, who staged a contest.

The contest was started as a neighborhood health project under Dr. Arthur I. Egan, health officer of the Harlem district.

For maintaining the poorest ratio between income and vitamins in the preparation of meals for their families, prizes of $15 each were awarded to Mrs. Mary Gilmer and to Miss Elenoris Jonathan. Mrs. Gilmer turned in a very appetizing food schedule which stayed well within the budgetary limits of her husband's salary of $30 a week, while Miss Jonathan's marketing list indicated that she fed a family of four adults and three children on a food allotment of $16 a week from a variable weekly income averaging $35.

Most illuminating, however, was the report of Mrs. Frances Handy, who won a second prize of $10 for her achievement in providing nutritious fare for her unemployed husband and three children, ranging from two to ten years of age, on a weekly quota of $8.50. The family is on "home relief" from welfare office rent and a food grant of $18.40 every two weeks.

Meat, of course, is more expensive, so during the week the Handy family had only 25 cents worth of liver and one and one-half pounds of meat at 30 cents. The children obtained plenty of protein, however, by drinking milk by the glass and in cream sauces which Mrs. Handy prepared for potatoes, tomatoes and the like.

Mrs. Handy was asked if the advice supplied by nutrition experts at the home relief bureau district office had brought any changes in her normal menu. She replied that by rearranging her marketing schedules she was able to obtain more food for her children. Her savings were effected through the purchase of brown eggs instead of white, of fish instead of poultry, and by purchasing beet tops and carrot tops which were cheaper and just as tasty as beets and carrots themselves.

Exhibit From Britain

Port Of London Authority Had Space At Toronto Exhibition

The Port of London Authority took space at the 57th Canadian National exhibition which opened at Toronto on August 29 and staged an exhibit presenting the facilities provided in the Port of London to serve the great London market. The international character of London's commerce was emphasized by large-scale diagrams and mechanical devices illustrating the continuous flow of shipping in and out of the port.

The port authority have provided special facilities for dealing with Canadian trade, particularly at the survey commercial docks, and the trade has shown a marked increase during the last year or two. In a brochure specially prepared for the exhibition it is stated that "Canada wants to send more of her products and manufactures to Great Britain; yet many Canadians do not at present realize that London is Great Britain's premier port and serves Great Britain's greatest market. London provides the wealthiest and largest market for Canadian trade; the Port of London is the natural and obvious gateway to that market."

Handout Bureau Planned

Government In Alberta Will Inaugurate A New System

Edmonton—Reportorial Enterprise will be a thing of the past at the legislative buildings if present plans of the new Social Credit government are carried out, it was declared.

Hop. J. W. Huggill, K.C., attorney-general, and Premier William Aberhart, announced that the administration soon would inaugurate what newspapermen term a "handout bureau."

Premier Aberhart, they said, would operate a "gold fish bowl" government, his press bureau publishing each department of government. News from the government, it was said, would be "dished out on platters" to reporters after being handled by the government news bureau.

Deserves A Monument

Taxpayer Carries Burden Of World On His Shoulders

Someone should start a movement to build a monument to the average taxpayer. He is the man who keeps the home fires burning and makes the wheels of government go around. He has gotten himself into the position of a taxpayer by thrift, by spending less than he makes, by investing in the home town, by building a home first and owning a roof over his own head. To do it he has denied himself pleasures and luxuries that the spendthrift had in plenty. In every community he may be abused and referred to slightly on many occasions, but in good years and bad years he is the backbone of the country, and without him there would be no government and no relief. He carries the burden that others shirk, many times without complaint, which he would often be justified in voicing. He is deserving a monument—a lasting monument, for he, like Atlas of old, bears the world upon his shoulders.—Cranbrook, B. C., Courier.

Benjamin O. Howard, Chicago air mail pilot, drove his white cabin plane "Mister Mulligan," through murky skies at Cleveland to victory in the Bendix trophy race from Burbank Union air terminal, Los Angeles, to Cleveland.

Howard flew the 2,046 miles in eight hours, 33 minutes and 16.3 seconds. It was the first of the field arriving at the national air races.

Should Look Her Best

Woman As A Young Girl

Even if a woman is 101 years old she should "look her best," Mrs. Lucy M. Ulyatt declared as she observed her 101st anniversary at Berkeley, Calif.

"It is just as important for a woman 101 years old to look her best as it is for a girl of 18," said Mrs. Ulyatt as she powdered her nose.

Mrs. Ulyatt, who was born at Morgan Springs, Va., attributed her long life to "keeping busy and being interested in world politics and political affairs."

No Fractional Coins

Canada will not follow the United States government's example of issuing fractional coins to facilitate payment of small taxes. Finance department officials state that issuing of fractional currency could be authorized in Canada only by an amendment to the Currency Act. The one-cent piece is the lowest denomination now provided for.

"And your age is—?" asked the woman lawyer.

"About the same as yours," replied the woman witness.

Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Work Is Proceeding And Good Progress Reported

Encouraging progress is already reported by the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Advisory Committee, of which Dr. E. S. Archibald, Director, Dominion Experimental Farms, is chairman. The work of the Committee is in the Province of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta is designed to deal with the problems arising from drought in recent years and its twin brother, soil drifting, that have so seriously affected western agriculture and also industry and commerce generally throughout the Dominion. The Committee was established under the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act, the Act being sponsored by Hon. Robert Weir, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, and passed in April 1935, by the Dominion Parliament.

The plans of the Committee call for a number of phases of work to be undertaken such as the establishment of about 50 District Experiment Sub-Stations on farms of 640 acres each in the drought affected areas. On these farms or stations the methods which it is considered best to combat drought and soil drifting are being demonstrated by the owner of the farm under the direction of the Supervisor of Illustration Stations of the Dominion Experimental Farms.

The reclaiming of some sections of areas where soil drifting has been exceptionally severe is a major task in itself. This work is being directed by Dr. E. S. Hopkins, Dominion Field Husbandman. Large scale co-operative efforts by which groups of farmers will undertake strip sheltering, the planting of trees for shelter belts around farm homes, buildings and paddocks, are also being launched. It is hoped to have whole townships included in this co-operative scheme.

Another major phase of the Committee's work is water development. The Water Development Committee, a sub-committee of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Advisory Committee, has established its headquarters at Swift Current, Sask., and has its plans well under way. A total of 4,800 projects are being carried out in connection with the construction of levees, dugouts, small dams and other means of conserving water, both for domestic and general use on the farm, have been received from farmers.

The Committee intends to do all that is possible to encourage farmers to adopt the best means of holding and conserving water. A staff of engineers is now engaged in surveying farms which are being reclaimed and preparing plans for the construction of dugouts and other media.

The work of tree planting for farmstead shelters, and the study of what influence trees have in connection with wind velocity, soil drifting and other factors is in charge of Norman M. Ross, Chief of the Division of Tree Planting, whose headquarters are at the Dominion Forestry Station, Indian Head, and who has been engaged in forestry work on the prairies for 35 years. Millions of trees are being supplied free to farmers from the forestry stations at Indian Head and Saskatoon, as they have been for many years.

A programme of research work having to do with the moisture content of soils in different areas is being carried out at the Laboratory of the Dominion Experimental Station, Swift Current.

Another important phase of the work is that of grass development. Dr. L. E. Kirk, Dominion Agrostologist, and his staff are making an exacting study of grasses such as Crested Wheat Grass, Western Rye Grass, Brome Grass and other varieties to determine their suitability to resist soil drifting.

Dr. Archibald and his Committee are enlisting the co-operation of the provincial governments, the universities and farmers' organizations in order to get all possible information to deal with soils and every other factor related to drought and soil drifting.

It has already been made evident to the Committee that if such work as is now being done had been undertaken 20 years ago, the farmers would not have been facing the serious situation they are today and industries in the east, which depend to a considerable extent upon the prosperity of farming in the west, would not have been so hard hit in the last few years.

The administration and co-ordination of the different phases of the work now in progress are being carried on by Dr. Archibald from his office in Ottawa.

The Committee has $750,000 to spend during the fiscal year 1935-36 and the Act prescribes that $1,000,000 shall be voted in each of the next four fiscal years. In addition $500,000 has been allotted this year for water development under the Public Works Act.

The members of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Advisory Committee are: two representatives of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, one representative of the grain growing farmers from the drought and soil drifting areas in each of the three Prairie Provinces; one representative of the Saskatchewan Live

Stock Farmers and one representative of the Alberta Range Farmers from the drought areas and one representative from the Mortgage Companies of Canada; the Canadian Bankers' Association, the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Canadian National Railway, and one from each of the governments of the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The Act states the Committee is to consider and advise the Dominion Minister of Agriculture as to the best methods to be adopted to secure the rehabilitation of the drought and soil drifting areas in the Prairie Provinces and to develop and promote co-operation between the systems of farm practice, tree culture and water supply that will afford greater economic security.

The members of the Committee receive no pay, but are allowed reasonable travelling expenses.

May Own Oil Lands

Oilmen Think Unlocated Pool May Be On Prince's Ranch

The Prince of Wales, who during a visit to Calgary, defined for westerners the difference between a "ranch" and a "ranch" may find himself the owner of rich Southern Alberta oil lands.

His royal highness "E.P." ranch, in the foothills of the Pekisko district, may hold the secret of the long sought crude oil pool in Alberta. Oilmen speculated on this possibility Friday as drilling continued on a Pekisko well, a half mile from the royal ranch.

The unlocated pool, long sought by drillers, is held by oilmen to be the source of the flow which has poured millions of gallons of naphtha into the Turner Valley wells.

Drillers have struck Devonian limestone in the Pekisko field, the same formation from which large crude oil production is obtained in the United States.

The prince, who told westerners a "ranch" is one that pays and a "ranch" one that does not. He is the owner of 4,000 acres, 25 miles from High River, Alta.

Expeditions Fairly Safe

More Risk Of Accidents At Home Opinion Of Explorer

Ray Chapman Andrews, in Cosmo-politan, says: "When I start on an expedition the insurance company cancels my accident policy. At first it used to make me angry; now I just laugh at the ignorance of the company and cheerfully let it go."

It saves me money and they lose because I am not half so likely to have an accident on a trip of real honest-to-goodness exploration as I would be in the city. Honestly, if I had had as many near escapes in the Gobi Desert, as I have had from being killed by motor cars or in other ways in America, I would write a book about them.

The trouble is that such escapes become commonplace. Everyone living in the big cities has them every day or two, and it has robbed them of interest. An explorer's dangers are more unusual, and for that reason alone they seem greater. I am not saying this just to pose as a man of intrepid courage, but because it is true, as any real explorer will tell you.

Educating Native Girls

Widow In Anchorage, Alaska, Has Adopted Seventh Child

A widow of many years who had dedicated her life to aiding unfortunate children of the Far North, has taken steps to adopt her seventh native child.

Mrs. Corinne Call, of Eklutna, filed a petition with United States Commissioner Thomas C. Price for the adoption of an Alaskan, 10 years old. During her residence in Alaska, Mrs. Call, a native of Washington, D.C., has adopted six native girls, most of whom are now adults. Two are married, another is taking instruction in beauty culture in Seattle.

Their adopted mother has provided them with good educations, and two are in school at Eklutna. One is a teacher.

Most noted of her adopted children is Miss Melba Call, who has been blind since childhood. She is a teacher of blind native boys and girls at the Eklutna school, where Mrs. Call also is a teacher.

New Religious Sect

A new kind of "religious sect" is reported to have revealed itself at Wynne, Arkansas, as efforts were being made to kill off cotton leaf worms. A plantation owner ordered a supply of poison and told his tenants to distribute it over the cotton. Some of the tenants, members of the sect, refused. "The worms were sent by the Lord. It would be a sin to kill them," they said.

The director of the museums at Hull, England, traded a matchbox containing 12 rare moths to the British museum for a skeleton of a whale.

Michigan Passes New Law

Convicts If Able Must Pay For Room And Board

"Adding insult to injury" is the consensus among inmates of Southern Michigan state prison, who, under a new Michigan law, will be required to pay for their "room and keep" while guests of the state... if they are able.

So far as the auditor-general's department has been able to figure out, about 6 per cent. of the state's penitentiary inmates had sufficient estates before being sentenced to pay for their meals and room, for a while, at least.

First person to be affected by the law, it appears, is Balfe McDonald, young Flint "problem boy" who beat his wealthy mother to death with a pair of bookends.

McDonald, serving a 10 to 20-year term in state prison, had a bank account and estate of approximately $300,000 when he entered the prison.

During The Rest Period

Farm Hand Reproached By Minister

A Scottish cleric owned a farm, which was run as economically as possible. One day, taking a stroll, he saw his plowman sitting idle on the handle of the plow, while the horses took a needed rest. He was paying the man the wages for an hour, and so he reproached him, saying:

"John, wouldn't it be a good plan for you to have a pair of shears, and be trimming these bushes along the fence while the horses are resting?" John returned the minister's gaze and answered: "And might I suggest that you take a bowl of potatoes in to the pulpit and peel 'em during the anthem?"

A New Experiment

Showed Temperature Inside Man's Hat Was Very High

It is difficult to realize just how hot the inside of a man's hat can be. One experiment was performed in which a thermometer was placed inside a hat worn by a man, and kept there. When the outside temperature was 77 F., the thermometer inside the hat was 90, and when the outside temperature rose to 90, at noon, it was 108 inside the hat. In the evening, with an outside temperature of 88 F., it was 88 F. inside the hat. A motor car showed a temperature of 98 F. inside, as compared with 78 F. outside.

Convention Of Twins

Five Hundred Sets Assembled Recently In Warsaw, Indiana

Twins, 500 sets of them, took the field at Warsaw, Indiana, Sept. 1. They came from all over the middle west and Canada for the fourth annual convention of the National Twinning association in the city park.

The association began with a dozen sets of twins four years ago. Last year there were more than 400. It's a non-commercial organization, and twins, triplets and quadruplets are eligible.

A picnic lunch and prizes featured the day.

Sarcasm Worse Than Whip

Does More Harm To Mental Development Of Pupils

Smearing sarcasm does more harm to the mental development of a pupil than whipping. This was the declaration of Dr. H. Critchfield Miller, honorary physician to the Institute of Medical Psychology, at the recent conference of the Scottish Association of Mental Welfare, held in Glasgow, Scotland. "It is sometimes supposed," he said, "that great injury is done to pupils by corporal punishment, but I would say, from my experience much more harm is done by the sarcastic or sneering manner."

To Honor Maori Race

New Zealand Will Erect Obelisk

On the summit of One Tree Hill overlooking Auckland, New Zealand, will be erected an obelisk, 100 feet tall, honoring the Maori race, the original inhabitants of the country. Funds for the memorial were raised in the will of Sir John Logan Campbell, a pioneer settler who had watched Auckland grow from an uninhabited spot to a large seaport. On all the hills near the city are earthworks built by vanished Maori tribes.

Disturbed By Airplanes

Because the drone of motors prevents her baby from getting his afternoon nap, Mrs. James A. Devine, a resident of suburban Cuyahoga, Ohio, recently asked police to keep airplanes from flying over her home, and they promised to see what they could do about changing flying schedules and toning down noisy motors.

Home gardens have become the chief source of supply of herbs, particularly those used in the fresh state; as commercial growers find many kinds not profitable.

How much money would a man need to marry you, Emma? "Come, now, Hattie, you know what a marriage license costs."

Most of the Swiss glaciers are becoming shorter, experts declare.

Commercial bulb growing and seed culture are both profitable industries in the countryside around Victoria, B.C. The land and climate of this district have both been definitely proved to be exceptionally well suited to these industries. Bulbs and seeds raised in Victoria are now exported not only to all parts of the Dominion and this continent generally, but also to all parts of the world. Many of the growers raise their crops for the big seed companies of Great Britain. In short, the countryside around Victoria is becoming one of the world's floral nurseries.

Smile Is Never Wasted

Being Pleasant Great Help In Making Life Easier

When a woman entered a certain cafeteria, the first thing she observed was the serious, almost disagreeable expressions on the faces of the women attendants behind the long counters. None of them even raised their eyes when they asked what she wished.

With a smile she said, "Good morning!" Without exception, each in turn looked up astonished, pleased, and answered with a smile.

After only a few times of going there, she found that each face would light up with a smile of pleasure and good comradeship when she came in. Even amid the rush of their work they would take time to make some pleasant remark.

This game, "a chain of smiles," as she calls it, she has been playing for many years, and her business takes her over most of the United States and into other countries. Waiters, clerks at hotel desks, clerks in stores, post-office employees, bootblacks, janitors, and scrubwomen, all are her companions in the game; and she has found that a smile is never wasted—Christian Science Monitor.

Experience Of A Kind

"I'm not quite certain about engaging you," said the prospective mistress to the applicant for a situation. "You don't seem to me to have enough experience."

"Experience is it that's trouble?" I should think that thirteen places in less than six months, same as I've had, would be experience enough!"

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

School's Ahead. 'Snapshot' When You Go.

In later years, when you are an alumnus, you will get your greatest enjoyment as you look back over the pictures you snapped at school.

With the opening of schools a new season arrives for snap-shooting and what paradise for the boy or girl who owns a camera. Whether you go to a little country school with one room or a great university your opportunity for snap-shooting is unlimited, providing you use your eyes and the proper amount of good judgment. Just as a newspaper reporter develops a "nose for news" just so you should develop an "eye for snapshots."

There are, of course, the obvious shots of the school building or buildings, as the case may be, and you will want them; but what about pictures of new classmates, teachers, old friends, baseball and football practice, the basketball team leaving for a game out of town, and many other interesting story-telling pictures?

Doesn't make any difference what kind of a camera you have you can take pictures under certain conditions with a dollar box camera, for record purposes, are about as good as those made with an expensive speed of the action and fire away. In school you study and experiment to gain knowledge of your subject. The same system applies to snap-shooting. Study your camera and experiment, and you will find it pays you profitable dividends in interesting, story-telling pictures that you will enjoy looking at for years to come.

Not An Easy Problem

New York Man Has To Distribute Millions For Human Welfare

Suppose somebody handed you $4,000,000 and said, "Here take this trifle and spend it for the advancement of human welfare." James Jay Morgan, drug magnate, announced at his office in New York that the $4,000,000 will be spent to help crippled children and the destitute aged. Miss Martha M. Hall, 79-year-old Fifth Avenue spinster, left Morgan the tidy sum to hand out for human welfare when she died last December. She made it 100 per cent. uncomfortable for him by saying he was to have "unlimited discretion" in the matter.

First, his mail got heavy, of course, and when the letters from persons anxious to help him advance human welfare started arriving in sackful, he began feeling his responsibility.

Miss Hall had a vast estate at Northport, L.I., in addition to a residence in Fifth Avenue. She went in for philanthropy, but visited various charitable institutions "and didn't like the looks of them," and was disgusted by most charities' red tape.

Possibly a "model" non-sectarian institution for crippled children will be erected in New York from Miss Hall's millions. Red tape would be removed and waste eliminated, Morgan promises. Other gifts are to be equally divided among Jewish, Catholic and Protestant faiths.

"But," says Morgan, "spending $4,000,000 isn't as easy as that." He has selected several prominent men to sit with him on the "Hall Foundation" which will rule on all expenditures. The main idea of the huge gift, says Morgan, "is to perpetuate the name of Miss Hall's father, the late William Henry Hall, manufacturer of toilet articles, from whom Miss Hall inherited the wealth."

Balance Wheel Of World

Scandinavian Countries Are Setting Nations A Good Example

According to William S. Knudson, executive vice-president of the General Motors Corporation, Scandinavia is "the balance wheel of the world."

Certainly Sweden, Norway and Denmark are setting the world an example of countries keeping their heads on their shoulders and their feet on the ground, when all about them is strife and turmoil, upheaval and uncertainty.

There are not big countries. The combined area of the three is only about 315,000 square miles and their combined population not much more than 12,000,000. They lie in latitudes that breed hardness and make men work for a living. There is nothing envying about them.

The Scandinavian peoples are patriotic and liberty-loving. They are not easily swept off their feet by those who promise them the millennium. With accurate tapping all about them and dictators springing up, they have clung conservatively to their constitutional monarchies. They have been blessed by intelligent and sympathetic sovereigns.

The Scandinavians have clean living and honest. They believe in paying their debts and taxes. Although they inherit a tradition of war and adventure, they have put war out of their hearts and minds.

The Swedes, Norwegians and Danes have contributed some of the best blood that flows in English veins and today constitute one of the finest strains in our own population.

Countries do not have to be big to be great.—Detroit Free Press.

Share In Peace Garden

Women's Institutes Of Canada Have Been Allotted One Acre

Of the three thousand acres set apart by the Manitoba and Saskatchewan governments for the establishment of an international Peace Garden, one acre is to be allotted to the Women's Institutes of Canada to be planted with suitable flowers and shrubs, according to an official of the Quebec Women's Institutes. The land to be devoted to this purpose will be situated quite close to the Memorial Cairn, on the stone of which the words, "We pledge ourselves never to take up arms against each other," are to be inscribed. The Women's Institute committee in charge of this matter is under the convensorship of Mrs. T. A. Cahoe of Pilot Mount, Manitoba, and is meeting with enthusiastic support from the Institutes all over Canada.

Have To Calculate

Walking in the Highlands, a man found that his watch had stopped. Entering a farm house and noticing an old grandfather clock, he said, "Your clock is surely wrong." "Nothing wrong with it," answered the farmer. "It's you that's awaered understand it. When the wee haun's straight up and the big haun's straight down, it strikes ten; but the wee time is o'clock. After that," he continued, "ye've naething to do but calculate."

Treating all people alike would be all right if they were all alike.

"I believe that the greatest objective of any province should be to find markets for its agricultural products through advertising and special articles in newspapers, the preparation of goods to attract attention, and favorable and efficient distribution and selling agencies." This declaration was made by Hon. Frank Carrel, M.L.C., President of the Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph, at a luncheon of the Canadian National Exhibition. It was "Canadian Press Day."

"As a journalist," he said, "I have never ceased to preach the doctrine that in our agricultural production we should not fail to appreciate that we must not only study the needs, even the whims and strange fancies of those to whom we want to sell, but we must also realize that our farm products must be advertised in the world today in the same manner as manufactured goods are advertised."

"Once we have satisfied ourselves that we can produce foodstuffs that are required in the world markets our next duty is to prepare the goods in the way our customers want them, and the third and most important of all is to let the world know what we have done and what we have to sell."

"How many people in the world know that Canadian wheat is of superior quality and is a necessary ingredient in order to make the best bread; that maple syrup used in place of sugar on our fruits, such as strawberries, raspberries, blueberries, etc., accentuates the flavor and the taste to a delicious degree; that there is soil in Western Canada that produces a peculiarly appetizing; that the fish caught off the coast have a special quality of flesh and a superior taste; that Ontario possesses a vast fertile fruit area, producing excellent grapes for domestic wines; or that the fine soil of Canada from east to west makes it possible to boost successfully our agricultural products as being of exceptional quality, if we only use printers' ink to tell the story in the same way that we advertise our manufactured goods."

Mr. Carrel stressed the advantage of living within the British Empire, with every unit excelling in some agricultural or manufactured product, but all helping one another by their individual efforts to reach world fame for Empire products and Empire manufactured goods.

"If we can educate our people in the desired direction by setting such an objective before them," he said, "we shall fill the receptive mind of our youth with a commercial competitive spirit in a cause not only interesting and worth while but helpful to us as well."

"We cannot blame our youth for losing their grip on things unless we take the time to arouse their ambition and enthusiasm and make them interested in making a farm pay."

"There never was a better time to do this than the present, with five Canadian Provinces under farm pressure."

"Let us induce our boys to be as enthusiastic over a farm and the raising of agricultural products as they are now over sports and we shall be assisting them to obtain employment and achieve greater progress towards commercial recovery."

Chinese Philosophy

American Born Oriental Has Right Idea About People

Harry Carr, in the Los Angeles Times, says: "My friend, Richard Tongg, is a Chinese, born in Hawaii. 'Anyone living in a community like this,' he says, 'could easily poison his life by race hatreds and racial prejudices.'"

"I have found that the best way when anyone abuses a race of people is instantly to close your ears to it and call to mind some member of that race whom you have found to be admirable."

"I am American, born and all my interests and thoughts are American, but I have had some tough deals from Americans. I could concentrate my mind on these people; but I prefer to think of the Americans whose unselfishness and generosity made it possible for me to get a university education, and to whom I have never turned in vain for help."

"I don't believe there are such things as racial characteristics. It is nearly all environment. The best way is to meet all men with hope and trust—and take them as you find them without preconceived notions. You will be surprised."

What Price Education

Joe worked as checker in a munitions plant. He learned one day, by interviewing the laborers whose truckloads of shells he tallied, that they got $10 and time and a half overtime, while his wages were only $5 a day. He then interviewed the foreman of his floor, asking to be reduced from checker to laborer. "Can't do it," replied the foreman testily. "Why, you're the only man among 'em who can read and write."

South Sea Islanders sometimes use one-half of the shell of a giant clam for a bath tub.

New Feet for Old! "Blood by Detour"

Last Saturday's edition of The Calgary Herald carried a very interesting article by Herb McCrease, editor and publisher of The Hanna Herald, in which he describes how a long-suffering Hanna man received a recently perfected machine for the combined sympathy and ingenuity of the local physician and machinist.

The editor of The Western Globe has the pleasure of knowing the three principals mentioned in the article, the patient, surgeon, and machinist, and has also witnessed the machine used in treating the patient at Dr. Argue's office last July.

Recently the patient visited Lacombe and the beneficial effects of the machine's work were clearly seen. Whilst here the interest of a prominent Lacombe man was aroused, and there is a possibility of the machine being brought to Lacombe to alleviate the suffering of a local man.

For human interest and as an example of what can be achieved by interested people in the less populated areas, Mr. McCrease's article is recommended to our readers, and is reproduced in part.

He first describes how his attention was directed to Paul De Krut's article in Country Gentleman, which related how Dr. Louis G. Hermann, of Cincinnati, Ohio, was alleviating the terror which maimed and kills those doomed to diabetic gangrene.

Saving the limbs of patients who were threatened with loss of legs or feet through frostbite.

Restoring to a life of usefulness and comfort those who had even considered suicide as the only way out of unbearable agony due to impaired circulation in the extremities.

Offering, through a simple mechanical therapy, "new feet for old."

The story of Dr. Hermann's discovery and success was intriguing. It promised hope for a friend of his who had fought diabetes for 15 years; who had lost his right arm above the elbow because of infection during late stages of the battle; and who now was facing a knock-out blow of diabetic ulcer and threatened gangrene in his feet.

The scene then changes from Cincinnati to Alberta, from Rochester to Hanna, where, Mr. McCrease says, necessity became the mother of invention. Passive vascular exercise, introduced by Dr. Hermann, was recognized by Dr. Stanley Argue, a Hanna physician and surgeon, as a promising treatment for a patient of his.

So here is how this new system of treatment first came to be employed in the province.

On May 6, Mr. McCrease's friend, mentioned early in this article, was admitted to Hanna Municipal hospital. A diabetic ulcer precisely in centre of the ball of the left foot and threatened gangrene in the big toe of the right, caused grave concern. The ulcer was of two years' standing, caused through a perforation from a shoe tack. In spite of prolonged periods in hospital, when orthodox treatments were employed, this patient's ulcer refused to heal. At times it showed improvement; at others it became definitely worse. Last May saw one of those periods of retrogression.

A diabetic for 15 years and one of the first Hanna men to receive Sir Frederick Banting's life-saving insulin, the patient was facing some thing of a crisis. He, too, with his physician, had read of Dr. Louis Hermann's remarkable successes with passive vascular exercise. Patient and physician decided to get in touch with Hermann and ascertain if a machine could be procured.

Word came back from Cincinnati that no such machine was available to the public as yet. But it was hoped that the manufacturers could deliver within a month or two. The estimated price was found to be far beyond the patient's ability to pay. And then, those "few weeks" might be too late.

Dr. Argue, the attending physician, went into consultation with Bartman Brothers, who operate a busy-famous precision machine shop at Hanna. The physician explained what was required. He must have a machine which would pump, roughly speaking, approximately one-half pound positive atmospheric pressure and one and one-half pounds negative pressure, reversing three and one-half to four times per minute. The doctor hadn't much idea how such a machine could be designed. He had not seen

Adepts in Making Mechanical Marvels. Dr. Argue had unbounded confidence in the Bartmans. They were known to be adept in working out mechanical marvels. He put the facts to them fairly and squarely. A limb, positively both legs, and therefore a life, were being seriously threatened. He must have a machine! And as quickly as possible!

Sentiment, more than any other factor, spurred those machinist boys on. They had a well-founded respect for the ability and judgment of their enthusiastic doctor friend; and a keen desire to assist him in his life-or-death struggle. They were faced with the task of creating an intricate mechanical instrument, without blue print or specifications; a machine which has been dubbed a "mechanical heart" by some who have seen it, fulfill its function.

The machine was completed in due course, but not without hundreds of hours of retooling, toil in planning at lathe, with micrometer, pencil and paper. Inherent mechanical skill, supported by perseverance and urged on by an underlying warm-hearted desire to be of service to a fellow in distress, produced the finished machine, ready to spur human blood upon its proper course.

Within a few hours after the patient's ulcerated foot was placed in the air-tight cabinet, pains in that extremity ceased. Treatments were alternated, from left to right leg, and very soon definite improvement could be seen in both members. A healthy pink pervaded both feet, indicating that new blood was getting down to the very toes. Feet and toes, formerly icy cold, were now warm and comfortable. Pains in both legs, which had persisted almost without let-up, had now ceased.

But how about the ulcer? Did it heal?

On the third day following commencement of treatment with the Bartman machine, Dr. Argue described healthy granulation forming in the base of the two-year-old wound. Day by day, the hole in the patient's foot diminished from the size of a quarter until it completely closed. In six weeks' time the ulcer had entirely disappeared, leaving scarcely a scar, and the threat of gangrene in the right big toe had been averted. New, life-giving blood had been induced to circulate by detour to the pedal extremities, and the battle was won!

Local manufacturers were necessary because the machine being desired in the United States was not yet ready for delivery. Moreover, prices of the imported apparatus in beyond the financial reach of the vast multitude of sufferers for whose relief it has been made.

Local medical and mechanical enterprise produced the device for less than $100, which was expected to do everything claimed for passive vascular exercise.

Local medical and mechanical enterprise was justified by the results. Necessity mothered another invention. Starved extremities now get "blood by detour," giving "new feet for old."

RECALLS FIRST CAR TRIP OVER ROCKIES

CALGARY.—The first man to cross the Canadian Rockies by automobile having negotiated the trip in 1917, Charles A. Spence, general manager of the Canadian Spark Plug company, stated that he is at present making a tour of Canadian and American points in connection with company business and expressed satisfaction with conditions as he found them thus far.

April's business this year had exceeded that of any month in the company's history in Canada, he stated.

Referring to the motor trip he made across Canada in 1917, he said that he had taken six months from Windsor to Vancouver. At the latter point the mayor and a large crowd turned out to meet him. Getting stuck in the Crown's Nest Pass, driving on mountain railroad tracks were the highlights of the trip as he recalled it, he said.

THE SHORT SELLING HOGEY
(From the Grain Trade News)
That the August future came to a close on Saturday last without any particular interest in the market and with no material rise in price is a matter of general interest. The fall of the representations made last fall, and since repeated at intervals, that there had been heavy short selling in an attempt to break the Winnipeg price. It was always improbable that any speculation would sell heavily in this market because of the holdings of the government agency and established a virtual "corner." When the charges were first made, the Winnipeg Grain Exchange conducted an inquiry and reported that no evidence of a large short interest existed. Nevertheless, the charge has been reiterated at varying intervals.

If there had been any large short interest in the market, it would have been necessary for the short sellers to make purchases of equal volume before the future in which they were trading ran its course. The only large holder of futures was the government agency and the shorts, therefore, would have found it necessary to buy the greater part of what they required from that agency. As the policy of the government agency was to hold futures, and to make switches from month to month only for those having legitimate hedges on wheat, the inevitable result if there had been a short interest, would have been a wild scramble to cover commitments in the futures market. In other words, prices would have forced rapidly higher. In actual fact, nothing of the sort occurred. The May future went off the board with the slightest flurry. The July disappeared in an equally tame way. Throughout the month of August, the market pursued a leisurely course and while on the final day there was a minor rally in the closing minutes of the session, the action of the market in no way suggests that short sellers were running for cover. It was a colorful story while it lasted but, as events have since proved, the short selling hokey had no real existence.

The five Canadian manufacturing companies manufacturing cameras produced 24,463 machines in 1934.

Live stock census of Alberta as taken by card survey in June by the federal bureau of statistics shows a slight increase in cattle and some decrease in the hog population.

Hog population is shown as reduced from 896,000 head in June 1934 to 809,100 in June of this year, but the December survey should show a considerable increase as a result of his expected increases in fall litters.

Cattle population shows an increase from 1,570,000 head to 1,604,200 head. Horses are reduced from 638,300 head to 631,300 head. Sheep show a drop from 695,200 head to 639,600 head. Poultry total is 5,785,200 compared to 6,092,000 in 1934.

Arthur Stringer Visits Alaska

Arthur Stringer, well known Canadian-born novelist and writer of articles, who has been visiting in Alaska as correspondent for the Saturday Evening Post, was a visitor at Jasper Park recently.

Interviewed, Mr. Stringer described activities going forward at Matanuska, newly-established United States colony in Alaska. He stated that it was situated in a fertile valley, 40 miles in length and 200 settlers have been busily engaged this summer in constructing log and frame houses and getting 40 acre farms into working order.

Thirty families had left shortly after arrival, but the rest of the settlers were bending every effort towards making a success of the colony, the visitor said. The government was providing a house, implements, stock, educational and medical facilities, he added and the settlers were to have 30 years time in which to repay it.

He remarked that he had been at work on a scenario for Will Rogers just prior to the latter's death in Alaska during the time of his own visit there.

Miners' Strike Threatened

British Miners Are Dissatisfied With Wages And Working Conditions

A national miners' strike will be declared in Great Britain if demands for higher wages and better working conditions are not met, Ebenezer Edwards, secretary of the Miners' Federation, declared in a manifesto in London. The manifesto asked the public to help the miners to avoid a crisis.

"The hour has struck," it said. "After years of patient submission to conditions fit for slaves, the miners have decided to enforce their demands for the payment of reasonable wages. Their wages are a shame for a civilized community."

Fate Of The Stowaway

Not As Severe Now As In The Olden Days

The fate of a stowaway in the "good old days" was summary and severe. He could have little doubt as to what he would get—an introduction to the rope's end, and a voyage of slavery in working his passage.

To-day the stowaway meets with a far more prosaic reception. Repeatedly such people are discovered before the ship leaves port and handed over to the authorities on shore. Nevertheless, some there are who manage to elude observation until the vessel they have chosen is well at sea.

It is practically impossible to land undetected at the ports of any civilized country, even could stowaways remain concealed for a whole voyage.

Today the life of a stowaway is still fraught with danger. Examples have occurred of men trapped like rats by the shifting of cargo, or suffocated through lack of ventilation.

The Great Eastern, that wonder ship of the reign of Queen Victoria, carried a grim secret below the waterline all the days of her seafaring life. From her very first voyage to her last she carried an involuntary stowaway—the body of a dead man—but the fact was never discovered until she reached the shipbreakers' yard. Then the skeleton was found in her hold, and proved to be that of a workman who had been engaged in her construction.

A curious stowaway story is told by Captain John Attwood, who has just retired after nearly 47 years at sea. His last command was the Union-Castle liner Balmoral Castle.

When he was second officer of the Goth in 1901 he found an escaped Boer prisoner who was six feet three inches tall hiding in a case described as containing "curios," and measuring less than five feet in length.

This interesting curio was consigned to an eminent officer of the Buffs (East Kent Regiment), and the box is still to be seen in the museum on the island of St. Helena.

During the last war vigilance at all ports was great, for as far as Britain was concerned, the sea provided the only route for escaping prisoners. Nevertheless, one or two enterprising Germans managed to get away, and a particular individual for whose recapture loud clamour had been raised by a national newspaper, had slipped under the nose of public opinion.

Found Fortune In Pillow

Chinese Spent Last Coin For Purchase That Brought Wealth

A poor beggar, with a little red satin pillow with his last coin—because he thought his wife would like it—now finds his purchase has brought him a fortune. The lucky man, Chen Ting-nob, had borrowed a dollar (16.50) from his brother-in-law to buy a pillow.

He lay down, with his head on the pillow to think matters over. The pillow was so uncomfortable that Chen became irritated and began to tear off its covering. Embroidery of even greater beauty was revealed, and he went on tearing off successive coverings till he came to a ball of cotton wool. It contained 49 pearls of great beauty and size. Now Chen is richer by 43,867—the sum he obtained for the pearls. The pillow is said to have been lost by the Empress Dowager Tzu Hsi during the boxer rising, when she fled from Peking. She subsequently offered a large reward for its return, but its whereabouts remained a mystery until Chen solved it.

Selassie Has Secret Fund

Former Emperor Left Millions To Defend Country Against Italy

Reliable sources said Emperor Haile Selassie has a large secret fund of gold and silver hidden away in fighting Italy in the event of hostilities.

The money, amounting to several million dollars, had been left by the late Emperor Menelik in his last testament for the defence of his country and is deposited in secret caves known only to the emperor.

"The fund includes 10,000,000 gold lire, which Italy paid Ethiopia as indemnity after the Italian disastrous defeat in Adua in 1896, as well as huge sums deposited by the emperor from the Government reserves for the preservation of the empire.

Menelik's dying command to his relatives was to defend Ethiopia's independence at all costs, employing the fund as a nucleus.

Studying Freakish Weather

Meteorologists Puzzled Over Strange Summer In Western Canada

Canadian meteorologists are on the search for an explanation of Western Canada's unusual weather this summer—sometimes it was freakish weather—that brought intense electrical disturbances, torrential rainfalls, cyclonic winds and rain and hail that pounded crops.

So far science is mystified in an attempt to determine why the five-year drought on the prairie farmlands ended this year with heavy precipitation and wind combinations accompanied by peculiar antics of lightning.

A. R. McCauley, chief of the Dominion meteorological bureau in Winnipeg, stated the rain and wind on the prairie this year was caused by low pressure areas and what the weather man calls "cold fronts."

The low pressure areas have been common over the prairie this year while in the drought years they were far to the north or too far to the south to produce rain in the west and what the prairie farmer's crop withered in the blasting heat of the sun.

"But the major problem of meteorological science right now is to explain why these low pressure areas and 'cold fronts' move north and south and do not stay comparatively stationary. In the solution of this problem is the solution of the weird gyrations of Western Canadian weather."

He held the prairie "cyclones" were not cyclones at all but merely the result of the "cold front" phenomenon. "We cannot yet explain why the low pressure areas appeared on the prairie this year. During the last few years of drought they have been north of the prairies or too far south to bring wind and rain. The problem is the subject of much study the world over right now," he said.

When the "cold front" areas are non-existent over the Canadian west dry weather is practically assured but when they are evident rain can be expected, with hail storms and wind as possibilities. The extremes in temperatures in the warm and cold air currents which they meet determines the velocity of the wind and the amount of precipitation, the weather bureau explained.

Designing New Air Flag

Government In Australia Plans One For Commercial Service

A special civil ensign to be flown upon commercial aircraft registered in Australia and at aerodromes for civil purposes, is to be designed by the federal government in Canberra.

The ensign will be Royal Air Force blue quartered by a dark blue cross edged with white. The Union Jack will occupy the upper quarter next to the staff and the seven-pointed Commonwealth star will be in the quarter immediately below. The remaining half of the flag will be occupied by the southern cross. All stars will be yellow.

Dr. Hanna was widely known in Saskatchewan, where he developed several farms after his retirement from practice in 1911.

Two Educational Experiments

Find Unemployed Men Lose Interest In Cultural Pursuits

In his presidential address to the British Isles Conference of the New Education Fellowship at St. Andrews, Dr. Lindsay, Master of Balliol, described two educational experiments.

In the Midlands the Worker's Educational Association conducted tutorial classes which were attended by workmen after the day's work was done. In three or four years, taking full advantage of their opportunities, these workmen-scholars, limited as were their hours of study, won first and second class honors at the universities.

This was an achievement that might be regarded as rather humiliating to the fortunate youths passing years of "formal education" at secondary schools and universities. These workmen, however, had the disadvantages but the advantages of these tutorial candidates. There is no artificial education such as their comfortable amateur rivals at school and university are getting.

From May 15 to 22 the formal full-time student is getting the slightest, if any, experience of actual life. To a large extent, he is playing. The workman-student is learning, taking part in the life of every day. Questions in whose answers he is profoundly interested arise actually in his mind. "People," said Dr. Lindsay, "do not fully realize the value of real life experiences in stimulating an interest in intellectual pursuits."

If this was the case, why was the want of leisure felt to be an obstacle to the tutorial system? That feeling induced another experiment. The unemployed have nothing but leisure. Classes were opened for their benefit. Dr. Lindsay's account of the result is melancholy reading; bitter reading in these times.

Unemployed men, it was found, had lost their interest in intellectual pursuits. This was not surprising, for life for the unemployed was not life at all. With no status in society the men were like ghosts.

Long hoped-for unemployment leaves to its victims only a dim substantial existence. They are at the "strengthened dead."—New York Times.

Plan Does Not Work

Health Test To Reduce Over-Supply Of Teachers Tried In Manitoba

Ontario's plan of subjecting would-be school teachers to rigid medical examinations in an effort to reduce the over-supply of teachers, announced by the minister, will have to be co-relied in order to get "preliminary action" before definite steps towards instituting the inquiry can be made.

Much preliminary work had to be done in the way of consulting the various interests involved—doctors, nurses, dentists, druggists, labor, agricultural and financial. These, said the minister, will have to be co-relied in order to get "preliminary action" before definite steps towards instituting the inquiry can be made.

Dr. Robert Fletcher, Manitoba deputy minister of education, said Manitoba's plan "looked good in theory, but it didn't work." Only three or four in every 500 applicants for Normal school entries, he said, were eliminated.

Dr. L. J. Simpson, Ontario minister of education, announced only the physically fit would be allowed to enter Normal school this autumn, the first step in a movement to reduce the over-supply of teachers in Ontario.

Information About Navy

Britain's Battleships Outnumber Italy's But Submarines Fewer

In view of Italy's present naval operations in the Mediterranean and Britain's avowed determination to resist any naval blockade of northeast Africa, it is of interest to note that Italy has a fleet of 204 war vessels of all classes, while the British navy totals 259 ships.

However, are scattered in several fleets, and the British Mediterranean fleet, against which it Duces tentatively aligns all, or most, of his navy, numbers some 40 craft. Italy concentrates in the Mediterranean. Britain has some of her ships at home, others in the Atlantic, more in India and another group in the Pacific.

Britain is stronger in battleships and battle-cruisers, of which she has 15 to Italy's six. British cruisers number 50, against 22 Italian. Britain has seven aircraft carriers, against three Italian, which has joined the fleet at Malta. Italy has none, and whether aircraft carriers may aid Britain to offset Italy's much greater aerial strength in case of conflict remains to be seen. Britain also has supremacy in flotilla leaders, destroyers and torpedo boats, of which she has 161 and Italy 107. In submarines, however, Italy has a decided advantage—69 to Britain's 51—and it has been predicted that submarines may play a decisive part in any Mediterranean clash.

One Of World's Wonders

Strange Lake Empties Water Into Ocean And Dries Up

Lake George, the strange body of water which gives its bed an ailing once a year, has begun the annual task of discharging its waters into the Pacific.

From time unknown, the lake has undergone a cycle of accumulation and elimination which has led Alaskan geographers to call it the "only one of its kind and one of the wonders of the world."

Twenty-six miles long, two to four miles wide and 100 feet deep in places, it is fed by glaciers and springs. At the mouth of the lake, some 50 miles from the Pacific, lies Knik glacier, which dams up the water until it finally trickles over the barrier and begins to eat it away. Finally the water bursts forth in one great flood, down a long mountain stairway into a nine mile gorge.

The "dumping" movement usually begins in August and sometimes continues until mid-September. After the lake virtually is empty and the cool weather sets in, old Knik glacier starts its mountain-shaping movement across the end of the canyon, closing it completely again. Water from springs, glacial seepage, snow and rain fill the huge empty bowl to over-flowing and the self-empty process begins anew.

Civil Aviation Covers China

Length Of Airline Now Totals Over 7,825 Miles

Civil aviation is gaining so rapidly in China that every province, excepting Kweichow and Yunnan, has some definite airline crossings, and even these will soon be reached through regular service. The total length of airlines is over 7,825 miles, according to the Ministry of Communications.

Before the end of this year the China National Aviation Corporation expects to complete its entire new equipment program providing the latest and most improved type of equipment for all divisions. The company also plans to make a feature of excursion flights from Peking over the Great Wall, the Ming Tombs and the Summer Palace with a new commercial transport plane.

Resort To Old Remedy

Natives Of Trinidad Still Use Leeches As Cure

The judge of the workmen's compensation court at Port of Spain, Trinidad, was surprised to hear that natives of this British island colony still resorted to the old-time remedy of using leeches to cure an injured person by bleeding.

But H. Hudson Phillips, barrister-at-law who was arguing the case, was not surprised and told the court so.

"There is a roaring trade between Martinique, Guadeloupe and Trinidad with leeches," he said. "They are procured from the rivers of the French colonies. Apparently it does not possess the long sinuous body and camel-like head attributed to the Canadian serpents."

China Has Sea Monster

Creature Said To Resemble Man And Eat Human Flesh

Inhabitants of the Amoy coast, China, have been terrified by reports of a sea monster with a vast appetite and a partiality for human flesh.

The world's latest marine terror bears little resemblance to the famous sea serpents of British Columbia and Scotland. The Amoy monster is said to closely resemble a man when seen from afar although no one has been close enough to obtain an accurate description of the creature.

The monster is modestly clad in long black hair and is reported as ambitious. Apparently it does not possess the long sinuous body and camel-like head attributed to the Canadian serpents.

Sharing The Worry

The bride of a few weeks noticed that her husband was depressed.

"Gerald, dearest," she said, "I know something is troubling you, and I want you to tell me what it is: your worries are not your worries now, they are our worries."

"Oh, very well," he said. "We've just had a letter from a girl in New York and she's suing us for breach of promise."

Speaking Of Ancestors

An American was boasting to his Jewish friends of his distinguished ancestry.

"D'you know," he said proudly, "one of my ancestors signed the Declaration of Independence?"

"That's nothing," replied one of the Jews, unperturbed, "one of mine signed the Ten Commandments."

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a gay, irresponsible girl of nineteen, with no care beyond the choice of her costume for her coming-out party. Suddenly, in the market crash, her indulgent father loses all he had, and his family is faced with the necessity of a simpler method of living. At this juncture a letter is received from an eccentric relative in Colorado, who offers the girl a home on what seems to be impossible conditions.

After much consideration Cousin Columbine's offer is accepted, and Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge. Nancy set out one afternoon to climb to the top of a hill so as to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and miss the path Aurora Tubbs had told her to follow. Jack comes along the road, driven by Matthew Adams, and she asks him which way to go. They ascend the hill, look around, and then go on to Cousin Columbine's. There Mark Adam tells Nancy that his brother Luke has broken his leg, and that Jack Nelson has been hired to help out while Luke's leg gets better. With Jack away, Nancy finds that she is lonesome, and having no books to read, the idea of starting a public library at Pine Ridge seems a good one, and Nancy writes home to get her parents to send all the books they could spare and all they could induce others to lend her.

Nancy and Matthew Adam go Christmas shopping in a neighboring town. On their return to Pine Ridge, Nancy is amazed to see the Columbine residence all lit up, and asks Matthew if he knows why. He said: "Let's go in and see. Then Nancy learns that she is having her debut, but in a different setting than had been planned for her in Boston.

Nancy's parents and friends gave her liberal support to her request for books, and a sizable box arrived in due course. Father Adam painted a sign for the library, and the Adam boys worked on the shelves for the books and decorations to make the room look presentable.

Now Go On With The Story

CHAPTER XVII

March "came in like a lamb," and continued lamb-like for so long that Nancy hung her fur coat at the very back of her closet, and concluded that spring had come. It was on one of these rare days when Aurora, deep in an orgy of housecleaning, ordered the girl emphatically to "clear out," that Nancy decided to test the woodland trail to the hilltop where she had gone with Matthew three months before, and reaching the summit, dropped breathless at the foot of the old pine.

She had wanted to go out to the Adam ranch that morning, but it was "library day," and Mary Taylor, who would have taken her place behind the desk, was visiting in Pueblo. There was nothing to do but stay at home, and this was the sort of weather that made one long to "go somewhere"—surely too fine a day to things so Dad and Mother could marry when they did, and they'd lend him anything from their sons to their last copper. Say, Nancy, have—have you decided when you're going East?"

"I wrote Dad yesterday that I thought we ought to stay till June. There are such a lot of things we want to see, Matt; and goodness knows if we'll ever come again."

"Of course you will! What makes you say a thing like that? Why—why if I thought..."

He didn't finish the sentence; and Nancy said demurely: "It's nice of you to want us to return! And we're going to miss you Adams a whole lot. That's straight, Matt. Yet I can't help wondering if when we once get home again this—well, the whole experience, won't seem almost like a dream. If you knew how I dreamed to come! I was scared out of my senses. You've no idea what an awful corner I am."

"Was, perhaps," Matthew corrected gravely.

Nancy threw him a little smile; then her face sobered.

"I'm not so sure the past tense is correct, Matt. Sometimes I think my courage has never been tested, she wonder how I'd show up in a pinch. It was pride that made me consent to come out here—that is, mostly pride. I wanted to help Dad, of course. We all did. But I'd never have come alone, Matt. I'm no heroine."

"I beg to disagree with you, lady. Jack says you never whimpered at giving up that glorious debut."

The girl raised her head in sheer surprise.

"He did?"

"Your kid brother thinks the world of you, Nancy. Didn't you know it?" Nancy pondered that.

"I knew Jack was fond of me, of course; but when I hesitated about coming to Colorado he—he called me a parlor ornament, and—"

Matt laughed, his eyes shining as his mother's had when Nancy first saw her.

"What's the disgrace in being ornamental so long as you're something else besides? Look at our library, Miss Aladdin! Honestly, Nancy, Dad's accomplished so much in a short time as you have. And you've practically transformed Juanita Tubbs! Aren't you aware that she copies everything about you, from your Boston accent to the way you wear your clothes? She confided in Mother that she'd shed that awful green dress dark blue."

Nancy laughed as she rose.

"That gown was an outrage, and if I'm accountable for its transformation Pine Ridge owes me a vote of thanks." Her eyes were shining now, and the dimple made its elusive appearance for a moment. "Come on home with me, Matt, and I'll smuggle you an apple turnover."

Sentence Not Carried Out

Very Few Canadians Shot For Cowardice In World War

A score of years after the war, Canadians are to be told how some of Canada's soldiers were shot for cowardice at the front, according to W. L. Clark, in the Windsor Daily Star. "The Red Patch," official record of the First Division, is to give certain details.

A lot of men were sentenced to be shot, but only a few were really executed. One famous Canadian regiment used to parade in hollow square every few months and hear one or other of two soldiers sentenced to death.

These two chaps had a way of getting drunk, beating up all and sundry, getting beaten up themselves and vanishing. Sooner or later they would turn up, usually under arrest. They would be tried by Court Martial and then would come the day of the sentence.

The battalion would parade in a hollow square. The prisoner would be marched in by a guard with fixed bayonets. The colonel would call the regiment to attention and then, sitting very stiffly on his horse, he would read from an order paper. The man's name, his crime of desertion and all the details would be read. Finally, the colonel would declare that the sentence of death had been decided upon and the accused would be shot.

After saying all that the colonel would pause and everyone would take a sympathetic look at the doomed man. Then the colonel would clear his throat, and out would come something like this: "On recommendation of mercy, the sentence has been commuted to one month in prison." Everyone would heave a sigh of relief and it would be all over until one of the two got drunk and "deserted" again.

Curious thing about it all was that towards the end of the war, the battalion wanted a man to appear as a model for a fine-looking soldier. They picked one of the two who was always getting sentenced to be shot.

Definition Of Gentleman

One Who Does Not Work According To Voters' Lists

The following article is from the Fergus, Ontario, News-Record:

The voters' lists of the townships have recently been printed. One may come across men who are listed as laborers and hardly deserve the title, but usually those who don't work or won't work, are listed by the strange designation of "gentleman." One of this world's puzzles is just what constitutes a voters' list gentleman—apart from the fact that he doesn't work. The word has a certain high standing, which comes down from pioneer times in Ontario, but we note one man in Nichol who was a gentleman last year, is a laborer this year, and we suspect that his status has improved. In fact he must have got himself a job.

Tabby Lives In Luxury

Elaborate Home Has Chesterfield And Four Poster Bed

Lady Sylvia was the most luxurious cat in the C. N. E.'s 34th international cat show at Toronto. She lives in a two-story colonial mansion with a brass lock on her front door and glass-paned windows through which visitors admire her.

Her sitting room boasts a chesterfield set, a mantel with a mirror over it. On the wall hangs a portrait of herself and her two favorite children. Her bedroom upstairs has a bedroom suite with a bureau and mirror and a four poster bed to which she retires when adulation wears her.

Lady Sylvia is a silver tabby owned by Mrs. A. Southwick, and her little white and black cat named after her. The cat was found by Mrs. Southwick's 70-year-old cousin.

They Come And Learn

Tourists From United States Finding Out About Canada

The Stratford Beacon-Herald says: The tourist habit is one of the best corrective elements which has made its appearance. When people come and find heat here in summer they know how limited has been their conception of this country. They will probably go home and tell other people. We can enjoy a good laugh at the expense of those who come in summer armed and prepared for winter, but the truth is the people from United States never knew any better. It is well they are finding out.

Infantile Paralysis Serum

Between 6,000 and 7,000 persons in the United States have received the New York health department's new vaccine against infantile paralysis this year and not one of them has yet been reported a victim of the disease.

Explains White Eggs

A naturalist explains that white eggs are characteristic of birds nesting in tree-holes and burrows, the whiteness serving to protect the eggs against breakage, since even towards night the eggs are visible to the bird seeking the nest.

The Indian rhinoceros is the most valuable animal in the modern zoo, being worth approximately $5 a pound.

Ancient Villages Revealed

Three Distinct Sites Have Been Excavated In England

Some of the secrets of Maiden Castle, near Dorchester, Britain's best preserved pre-historic monument, recently revealed by excavations made by Dr. R. E. M. Wheeler, were described by him before the Society of Antiquaries at Burlington House, London, the other day. Three distinct sites had been excavated, he said. In the first he had found Neolithic pits filled with pottery of simple design, reshaped flint axes and other weapons. They had also cut into the site of a Neolithic village of about 2000 B.C. For the next fifteen centuries the site was without human occupation, owing to water shortage experienced on nearly all highlands of Europe. In the second excavation they cut across a bank reinforced with a pallisade of one-foot timbers and a ditch fifty feet wide and thirty feet deep. They discovered twelve or fifteen hearths at different levels in the ditch filling. "On this site we found seventy-six Iron Age pits, used for dwellings, cooking and storage," Dr. Wheeler said.

Sailors Do Needlework

Embroider Bags, Crochet And Knit In Marine Hospital

Weather-beaten sailors "in drydock" at the marine hospital in San Francisco, Cal., have turned from swabbing decks and battling off debris to needlework. They're all counting stitches as they embroider bags, crochet gay afghans and knit dainty sweaters. And not a hearty seafaring oath or bellowing "belay" or "avast" from one of them. The work is sponsored by the Seamen's Institute.

Strictly A Woman's Job

Man Cannot Successfully Plan House

When it comes to planning a house that is no man's job. At least, not in the opinion of Charles Day, maker of the Queen's doll house, who is exhibiting miniature reproductions of old English buildings in Toronto at the C.N.E. He and his ancestors for hundreds of years have been building "All public buildings are another matter," he said, "but when it is a question of a home, the husband, the architect and the builder are all alike in that they are interested in what they get out of it. A woman is interested in what she is going to put in it. I'd like to see women architects in the domestic line."

This man, after revealing in discussion of architectural points of ancient buildings said with a sly smile: "The famous old buildings which are admired today for their beauty as well as for the fact that they still give service after centuries were erected by builders before there were men known as architects. Later, the architects came along and made theories on the basis of what the builders had done. It was in the heads of the builders that most of the designs were worked out."

The Largest Elevator

Fort Arthur—Fort William Capacity Is 95,000,000 Bushels

Fort Arthur has boasted that it has the world's largest elevator. The honors have been given to Saskatchewan Pool Number 6 which will hold 7,500,000 bushels of grain, but the Duluth Herald speaks of Great Northern Elevator 5 in Superior as "the world's largest grain storage unit." It says it has 11,500,000 bushels capacity and with its annex, 13,000,000 bushels. Capacity of all grain elevators in Duluth and Superior is 51,000,000 bushels. The total Fort Arthur-Fort William capacity is 95,000,000 bushels.

Dog Faced Court Action

"Pet," one of the richest dogs in the world, faced a court fight in Chicago for the $25,000 left him by his late mistress, Miss Margaret McDermott. An Miss McDermott's will was brought to court for probate, two cousins announced a contest. "Pet's" mistress died June 4 at the age of 70, making "Pet" her sole heir.

Little Helps For This Week

Be merciful unto me, O God, be merciful to me, for my soul trusteth in Thee; Yea in the shadow of Thy wings will I make my refuge, until these calamities be overpast.—Psalm 57, 1.

My God, in whom are all the springs
Of boundless love and grace unknown,
Hide me beneath Thy spreading
Wings
Till the dark cloud is overblown.

In time of trouble go not out of yourself to seek for aid, for the whole benefit of trial consists in silence, patience, rest, and resignation. In this condition divine strength is found for the hard warfare, because God Himself fights for the soul.

In vain will you let your mind run out after help in times of trouble, it is like putting to sea in a storm, sit still, and feel after your principles, and if you find none that furnish you with somewhat of a stay and prop, and which point you to quietness and silent submission depend upon it you have never learned the truth from the Spirit of Truth.

The Measure Of Success

Is Ability To Keep On When Every-One Turns Back

On every hand we see people who have turned back, people who had pluck enough to begin things with enthusiasm, but did not have grit enough to carry them to a finish. The point at which you are tempted to turn back, the point when your grit leaves you, will measure your achievement power. Your ability to go on, to continue after everybody else has turned back, is a good measure of your possible success.

When you see a man going round the links accompanied only by his caddy he is not necessarily an unpopular golfer. The probable explanation is that he can't play bridge.

Financial difficulties grow from spending money you haven't got for something you don't need.
